

MeasureOne Process Overview

Education & Employment Verifications Illustration

1 Michelle has landed her dream job as Senior Director, Rocket Scientist at GoMars. GoMars has asked AAA Background Screening to verify Michelle's degree earned, prior employer's name, job title and hire/end dates.

2 Michelle gives MeasureOne consent to access her education and employment data and share her degree earned, prior employer's name, job title and hire/end dates with AAA Background Screening.

3a Michelle provides MeasureOne the necessary credentials to access her education and employment data from trusted data sources. MeasureOne accesses and extracts Michelle's education and employment data and uses it to confirm degree earned, employer's name, job title, and hire/end dates.

3b Alternatively, if Michelle cannot access her employment data, she uploads her paystub and provides her bank account credentials. MeasureOne parses Michelle's pay stubs, then accesses and extracts her direct deposit information from her bank and compares it to her paystubs to confirm her employer's name.

4 MeasureOne reports Michelle's education and employment data to AAA Background Screening.

MeasureOne Verification Process

MeasureOne may be used when completing your employment and education verification. They are a third party used by Diligent Data Services during the background check process.

You will receive an email from MeasureOne for you to start the verification process and give your consent for them to access your employment and education data. You will also consent for MeasureOne to share these results with Diligent Data Services.

MeasureOne will require your recent employer's name, job title, and approximate start/end dates. You may also need to give your degree earned and approximate attendance/graduation dates.

You will then provide the necessary credentials for them to pull your education and employment information through secure sources. This may include your college portal and payroll system.

If you do not have access to your employment information, you will have to upload your most recent paystub and bank account details. They will verify the employer on your paystub with your direct deposit in your bank account.

MeasureOne will extract all information to confirm it is correct and accurate. Then provide their findings to Diligent Data Services who will report to our client.

If you are unable to complete the MeasureOne process for any reason, you can simply let the link expire.

We will then verify through alternative methods.
